Dan Buick was a successful business owner himself before entering the insurance industry, spending 15 years as the owner and operator of three restaurants located in San Francisco and the Virgin Islands. Dan's experience gives him uncommon insights into the risks faced by businesspeople and entrepreneurs in all walks of life.

Now as one of the most successful agents at Farallone, Dan specializes in investment properties, including apartment buildings, office complexes, strip malls and industrial properties. He recognizes the risk management needs of all the stakeholders involved in commercial and investment real estate, and helps them address those needs with perceptive solutions.

As a fourth generation San Franciscan, Dan understands the nuances of the Bay Area property market and its special needs. Dan's remarkable background offers special advantages to his clients here in one of the most unique and challenging regions of the United States.
